Two of our members, Bonnie McDermid and Molly Johnson were among those who attended this year's AAW national symposium in Kansas City. They will be giving a presentation of the highlights of their trip at this meeting. This is what they had to say about their experience:

Neither of us had attended the AAW Symposium before, nor did we know what to expect in Kansas City this June. We were both impressed with the extensive class offerings, the artistic ability of the presenters (and attendees), and the generous spirit of sharing and teaching at the event. We came away with a lot of new knowledge and inspiration to share with fellow LSW members.

The November show at the Depot is rapidly approaching. I hope that all who were interested in participating have their works well underway. The selections will take place at the October meeting. At the Sept. meeting we suggest that the members bring in their finished works, or ones still in process, for the “show and tell”. This would allow the group a chance to provide help in resolving any issues you may be having with technique and presentation. These kind of sessions have been well received in the past and help us all grow as turners.

There will be a “Sharing Session” on Sept 20th, at 6:00 P.M., if there is enough interest. If you are interested, let us know at the meeting, or please contact Robb Glibbery.
